

A faculty of College of Agriculture & Polytechnic in Agriculture, AAU, Vaso honored with “Best Woman Scientist Award – 2025”

In a moment of immense pride for the academic community of Anand Agricultural University, Dr. Binduben M Christian, Assistant Professor & Head, Department of Agricultural Extension and Communication, College of Agriculture & Polytechnic in Agriculture, AAU, Vaso, has been conferred with the prestigious “Late Champaben Vallabhbai Mayani Best Woman Scientist Award – 2025.”

The award has been presented by the Society of Extension Education, Gujarat in recognition of her exemplary contributions to Agricultural Extension Education, impactful research, academic excellence, and unwavering dedication to farmer empowerment. The award has been presented during two days National seminar “Digital Extension and Farmer Empowerment: Pathway to Viksit Bharat” on Date: 20/2/2026. This distinguished recognition highlights her outstanding scientific achievements, extension innovations, and meaningful service to the farming community. The award includes a certificate of honor and a plaque, symbolizing excellence, dedication, and impactful service in agricultural sciences.

The entire AAU fraternity has expressed heartfelt congratulations and immense pride in her accomplishment. Her achievement stands as a testament to the university’s commitment to academic excellence, research innovation, and societal development. Her recognition not only honors her individual excellence but also serves as an inspiration to aspiring women scientists in the field of agriculture.

